The history of Greece found in a Mansion...

With the signature of the distinguished Theophil Hansen, inspired by the great Greek benefactor Constantine Zappas, the Zappeion Megaron, bears in every part of it the ambitious idea of the revival of the greatest leading international sporting events and with it, the cultural renaissance of Greece.

The Zappeion Megaron stands imposing, attractive, ready more than ever, and fully technically equipped to welcome any event, exhibition or conference.

The oldest monument of the capital, a reference point of the modern history of the country, reflects important events and confers prestige on anything it hosts.

State of the Art events at the emblematic Zappeion Megaron

Just a few meters from the Panathenaic Stadium and Syntagma square, the Zappeion Megaron has become the first building in the world which was erected specifically to serve the Olympic Games.

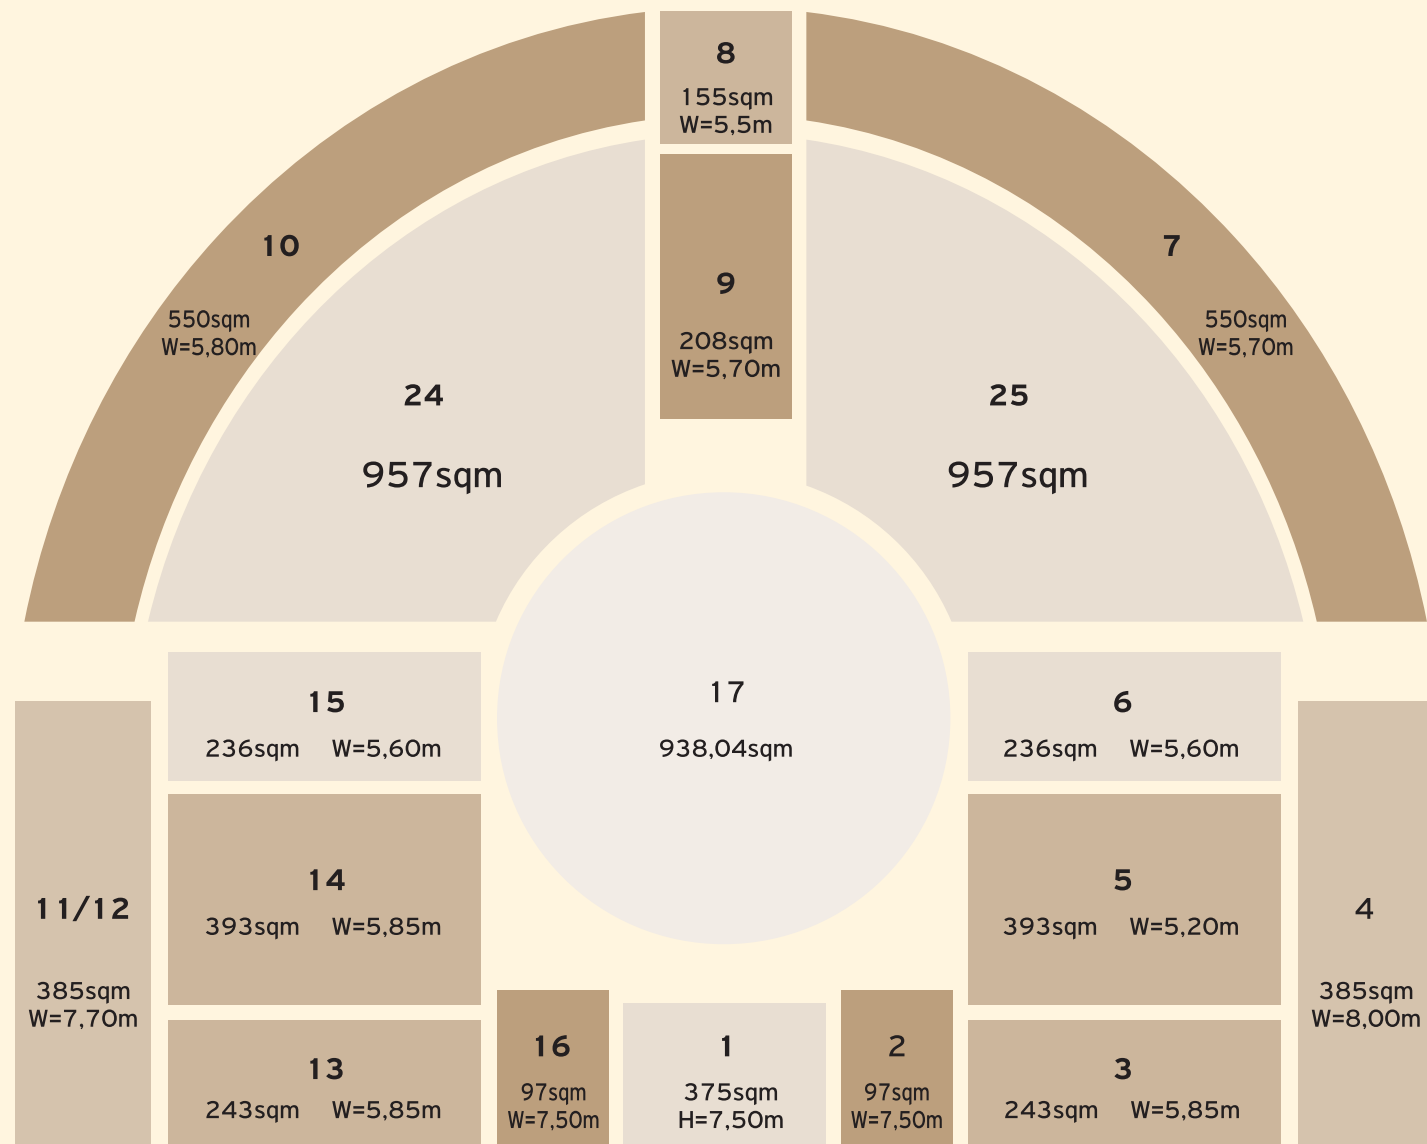

In its generous spaces of 4,000 square meters were hosted the most significant moments of the country's modern history. Culture, economy, sports, science, and politics, wrote their own history and reflected their own creative steps.

Today, in its premises, companies, organizations, institutions, and professionals, find the "appropriate conditions" to promote ideas, services, achievements, and products.

ZAPPEION MEGARON PLAN

Neoclassical style, modern facilities, and high technology

Seventeen (17) halls, two open-air inner courtyards, and a central atrium-peristyle compose a single area of unparalleled beauty and spaciousness for conferences with hundreds of participants, dinners for 550 people, and cocktail parties for 1,500 guests.

The Zappeion Megaron halls are equipped with modern technological infrastructure, 12 integrated translation booths, a simultaneous translation system in 9 languages, 3 interpretation consoles per booth, with respective microphones and headphones, Internet, security and control systems, which deliver what they promise:

Success in every event!
